

A contemporary tale about Budapest

Barbara Zsidek, graphic design, 3rd year

Supervisor: Imre Gábor, associate college professor, Munkácsy Mihály Prize awarded nonfiction (travels) book,

Size: 250mmX250mm

hardcover,

58 pages

With my entry, I'm presenting a book which introduce the sightseeing of Budapest via the hungarian folktales: the tales are displayed in the streets of Budapest, for example the characters travel by trolley. After each story there is a map where one can follow the storyline. The tales are defined by the illustrations and they are also more vivibile, because of the contemporary background and timeline. I wanted to collect and collobrate the cultural heritage with the help of hungarian folktales, so every reader at least a little bit get to know about the hungarian culture. The aim of the book is to exhibit Budapest, the capital of Hungary and to promote this city.