

In the wake of photography's space

In this work we ask that: should we go back into the space from the pictures flat? Should we remake the space or something reality from the picture?

I was shooting inside a paper model of the picture.

I tried remake the space by close records with the motion picture.