Rituals: The 99 Names of God

Arab-American filmmaker Yumna Al-Arashi explores the rhythmic rituals of mystic Islam

London-based director Yumna Al-Arashi's poetic new film—which originally premiered at Tribeca Film Festival—sheds light on the mysticism and rituals that have been part of the Islamic tradition throughout the centuries. Here she explains why her film is not just about beauty, but about correcting the often negative portrayals of Islam
