Brief description of the completed short term study program:

The completed short term study program is composed of two main parts as Ms Lukács has performed research in two subjects. One of the subjects was camera surveillance at the workplace and data protection, which is the subject of her final thesis, so she collected some foreign literature in order to be able to write a more profound and complex paper. The other subject was telework and data protection, for her thesis that she was writing for the National Scientific Students' Conference.

During the performance of these two researches she went to the university libraries to collect literature mostly in French, and then to complete it with English literature available in the above mentioned institution.

Description of skills and competences acquired during the short term study program

1. Activities/tasks carried out

Ms Lukács has done research in some of the university libraries, mainly in the library for the students of the Labour Law and Social Law Studies Department. She could also meet some students from the Faculty of Law.

2. Specific professional competences acquired

Her knowledge in her research subjects was deepened by completing her already existing knowledge about the Hungarian situation. Here, at the University of Paris, she could study the cases in France and books and reviews about her subjects, so she could inform herself about how the question of telework / camera surveillance at the workplace is regulated in France.

3. Language skills and competences acquired (if not included under 'Job-related skills and competences')

Ms Lukács succeeded in developing her professional vocabulary both in French and in English, by examining the literature in foreign language and spending almost two weeks in France.

4. Computer skills and competences acquired (if not included under 'Job-related skills and competences')

During her stay Ms Lukács did not have to account for special computer skills or competences, she just needed to learn how to use the research programs for the libraries' catalogues to be able to find the books needed.

5. Organisational skills and competences acquired (if not included under 'Job-related skills and competences')

Ms Lukács proved to own sufficient organizational skills to organize the study trip well. She looked for and went to several libraries to be able to find the literature related to her research subjects.

6. Social skills and competences acquired (if not included under 'Job-related skills and competences')

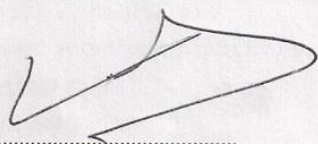

Ms Lukács had the possibility to interact with some students from the Social Law master, so she could practice her French and gain more information about the French higher education.

7. Other skills and competences acquired

Above all the professional knowledge that Ms Lukács has gained during her stay in France, only by coming and organizing every necessary measure for this short-term study trip, she obtained experience that will be very useful for her in the future.

8. Number of awarded ECTS credits (if any):0

Hereby I certify, that the above mentioned student has successfully completed the described Short Term Study Program.
